

SISTER GROUP "DELISSÁNA" HITS GRAMMY LIST

CLEVELAND, OH – Sister singing and song writing duo Diana and Elissa Coso (DeLissána) received exciting news from their Grammy Award-Winning Producer/Arranger Pablo "Chino" Nuñez, that they made the final pre-nomination ballot in multiple categories for the 57th Grammy Awards. Their album "Embrace-Abrazo-Abbraccio" was submitted to the National Academy of Recording Arts & Sciences (NARAS), scrutinized by music industry experts, and received nods for consideration in the Grammy Awards slated for February 8, 2015 in Los Angeles.

Receiving over 20,000 submissions each year, NARAS has the monumental task of giving each submission a thorough review until they whittle the list down to the final pre-nomination roster. It is from this list that the NARAS members cast their votes, and the top vote-getters are derived. Votes are to be based on quality, as opposed to sales chart performance, friendships or other alliances.

Diana and Elissa are extremely honored to be recognized for this musical achievement and accolades after singing together since they were kids. They've not only performed in countless local spots, but are performers and musical directors of The Patriot Tour (USO), and sung in venues from Balboa Park in San Diego to Camp Lejeune,

NC. "Our heads are spinning and hearts are pounding with the thrill of making this prestigious list," said Elissa.

"Not only has it been a joy to sing and perform as sisters, but it's been our life-long dream to have our music heard and loved," Diana added. "Now we are looking for the votes so we can head to Los Angeles, even if we have to walk there! We are 'so over-the-moon.'"

How cool would it have been for two Ohio sisters to receive an "Eddie", named for Ohio's Thomas Edison, inventor of the phonograph, one of the original suggestions as the name to be given to this trophy? However, receiving a Grammy, named for Emile Berliner's invention of the gramophone works just fine, according to the girls.

If you would like to see them in person, they will be performing at Great Lakes Mall in Mentor, Ohio, on Black Friday, November 28. They will be on location with WINT Radio 1330 AM.

Diana and Elissa are the daughters of Joan (Govich) Coso and the late Michael Milan Coso of Cleveland and Lorain, Ohio. They are the granddaughters of the late Michael G. and Mary (Pavlovich) Govich of Lorain, and the late Nikola and Pera Coso of Cleveland; and great-granddaughters of Simo and Milica Pavlovich, also of Lorain.
